Part B

Situation

You are James Lee. You work for HKHeart, a non-governmental organization which helps preserve local heritage. Your boss, Connie Wong, has asked you to help organize a programme called ‘Tong Lau Viva’.

You will listen to a recording of a radio programme. In the programme, you will hear an interview with Nathan Kwan about heritage revitalization and his recent endeavours. Take notes under the appropriate headings.

Before the recording is played, you will have five minutes to study the Question-Answer Section and the Data File to familiarize yourself with the situation and the tasks.

Complete the tasks by following the instructions in the Question-Answer Section and on the recording. You will find all the information you need in the Question-Answer Section, the Data File and on the recording. As you listen, you can make notes on page 3 of the Data File.

You now have five minutes to familiarize yourself with the Question-Answer Section and the Data File.

Subject: Things to do for the campaign

Dear James

I'd like you to help out with a few things for the Tong Lau Viva campaign.

- Complete the pamphlet for the Wing Fung House Open Days. Write a short paragraph introducing the term tong lau. You may find Nathan Kwan's description of tong laus in the radio programme useful. Mention the organizing bodies and include the purpose of the open days. Put in the facts about Wing Fung House and provide details of the open days. You may refer to our meeting minutes for reference.
- Write a profile of Nathan Kwan to be posted on our website. First, talk about his personal background and career. Then mention his involvement with the Wan Chai Neighbourhood Association. Remember to introduce his role on the Wing Fung House guided tours and information about his new book.
- We received an email from Ms So, a teacher at Sakura International School who would like to book a guided tour of Wing Fung House. Reply to her email answering all her questions. You may find our guidelines about the guided tours useful.

Thanks

Connie

Nathan sees the world in a grain of sand

Wing Fung House guided tour

2 September 9.03 pm

To help the public get a better idea about tong laus, the Wan Chai Neighbourhood Association is co-organizing the Tong Lau Viva campaign with HKHeart. As part of the campaign, Wing Fung House will be open for public viewing.

I am honoured to have been invited to lead the English guided tours at Wing Fung House (address: 260 Johnston Road, Wan Chai) for those who want to know more about the building but don't understand Cantonese.

Make sure you don't miss this golden opportunity to come and join us!

New book: A Walk down Memory Lane

30 August 11.46 pm

I am happy to announce that my book is on Hong Kong Good Reads' bestseller list. It took five years for this book to finally materialize as I spent quite some time talking to old tong lau dwellers. I really cannot thank my family and colleagues enough for their love and support!

Nathan Kwan

I was born and raised in Wan Chai. I love old buildings in Hong Kong that are a mix of East and West.

Subject: Fw: Enquiry about Wing Fung House guided tours

Dear James

I don't think a 50-person group is possible. As Wing Fung House is a listed building, I don't think we can let so many people go into it at once. I think Ms So should divide her group into two. The first group could join the tour at 2 pm and the second group could join the one at 2.30 pm.

During their wait, the second group could join a Wan Chai Heritage Tour organized by the WCNA. She can find more information about them on the WCNA website.

Subject: Enquiry about Wing Fung House guided tours

Dear Sir/Madam

I am writing on behalf of Sakura International School to enquire about visiting Wing Fung House for our class field trip. We would like to arrange an English guided tour on Friday 24 October at around 2.30 pm for 48 students and two teachers. Could you please tell me if a guided tour for the above date and time is available and if so, how we can apply for it?

Thank you for your attention. I look forward to receiving your reply.

Yours faithfully
Heather So

Guidelines on Wing Fung House guided tours

Tong Lau Viva

Wing Fung House guided tours

1. The guides will escort each group around the compound while introducing the site's history, its architectural features and the revitalization process.
2. To maintain order and to ensure that visitors enjoy their visit, all visitors have to comply with the guides' instructions.
3. Eating and drinking are prohibited inside the building.
4. Photography is allowed but there is a 'no flash' rule.
5. Please contact HKHeart at info@hkheart.org.hk with any enquiries.
6. To join a tour, please fill in the application form available at www.tonglauviva.com.

Dear James

Here are three things I'd like you to do to help with the Tong Lau Viva campaign.

Please write an article introducing Wing Fung House, which will be posted on our website. Introduce the background and architectural style of the house, as well as its renewal and the differences before and after the renewal. You might want to start by reading the interview notes from the interview I did with Ah Choi and your notes from the radio programme. Remember to give the article a suitable title.

Sharp Design has sent us the poster for the campaign and the invoice, but there are some problems. Please email Sharp Design and ask them to fix the problems. Quote the order number, invoice number and the name of the person who handled the order. Remember to tell them when we need the revised version by. Apart from the poster and invoice, also look at Sharp Design's leaflet and our meeting minutes to get the necessary information.

I'm going to give a speech at the Tong Lau Viva opening ceremony. Please help me draft the speech. First, I want to explain what heritage revitalization is and what good it brings to the community and economy. Then briefly mention the events organized for the campaign and when they are being held. Remember to mention where visitors can collect stamps.

Thanks

Connie

Should our city preserve its valuable history or just make way for the new?

Dear Editor

Many valuable old buildings have already been demolished to make way for new ones. However, I don't think this is the way forward for our city.

Instead, I believe development can be achieved by heritage revitalization. Take Wing Fung House in Wan Chai as an example. It was built in 1938 by businessman Harrison Fung and has now been renovated by the government to be used as a modern showpiece for old Hong Kong culture. Wing Fung House is characterized by its decorative columns at the front, as well as its French-style windows made of stained glass. In the building, you can also find wooden stairs with handcrafted wooden balustrades and mosaic flooring.

More and more people want to preserve these old historic buildings instead of destroying them. I believe that we have a responsibility to preserve them to give future generations an opportunity to learn the history of the city they are living in through them.

Forum on the HKHeart website

http://www.hkheart.org.hk/forum
Forum <input type="text" value="Search"/>
lisad1 #1	I don't get the point of preserving old buildings. I think it's easier just to pull them down and build new ones instead of squandering money on renovating them. Financial viability, not conservation, should be the city's number one priority.
marvislee #2	If you want to talk about financial benefits, revitalized historic buildings can attract investment that changes deteriorating neighbourhoods for the better. They can also attract tourists and bring in income.
sam910 #3	Very true indeed. Heritage revitalization is an efficient use of resources as it creatively transforms buildings that have outlived their previous uses and may have stood empty for years.
